

The FCC should not implement any proposal that would lessen Indiana's Telephone Privacy Law, because the Law is the voice of the people. The telephone privacy law has improved our life because we can now enjoy time that was previously wasted by obnoxious telemarketing. Telemarketing calls upset us and cause anger and unnecessary stress in our lives. Because of the telephone privacy law we very seldom receive a telemarketing call whereas we received 10-12 per day previously. The Indiana Telephone Privacy Law is one of the most satisfying pieces of legislation to come our general assembly ever, because it has done wonders in helping prevent vulturous telemarketers from taking advantage of all our citizens, especially seniors and those who are gullible. Please do not lessen the effectiveness of our telephone privacy law. In fact, the FCC should support telephone privacy. Thank you. Howard & Kathy Henry
